PREFACE

Ontario population data by county is available from the Census of Canada every five or ten years. Statistics Canada, in its statistical studies, estimates provincial population by age and sex for other than Census years and after each Census provides a set of revised estimates for the inter-censal period.

The increasing need of trend information for small areas on the part of planners at all levels of government has led to the development in Ontario of a program of estimation of county population by age and sex on a census definition basis.

The report provides statistical tables on inter-censal estimates of the Ontario population for the planning regions and counties by sex and five year age groups for the period 1972-1976.

For some preliminary analysis of the changing patterns of population growth in the Province see Ontario Population Trends: A Review of Implications.
